EVANS WINS FIRST PLACE IN ESSAY CONTEST

Heying Holds Post of Head Sacristan

We feel that it is about time to let you in on some of the secrets of our crew of sacristans. First we have the honor of presenting Mr. Hilarius Heying, of Festina, Iowa, Head Sacristan. Hilarius came to Columbia when he was a little boy about four years ago, but since that time he has grown to be quite a man around the campus.

Hilarius Heying

If you happen to be in the Sacristy any evening after night prayers you can see Hilarius taking charge of things in the way of getting ready for the morning Masses. The Sacristans have the responsibility for servers also and, of course, if Mr. Server doesn't appear on time he has to avoid the reproachful glances of the student monitors.

In between times Heying has found time to win a few letters in foot-ball and act as substitute chauffeur, type-writer sales expert, ticket agent, a good 500 player, intra-mural and reserve coach and a not infrequent visitor at Clarke College as well as body-guard for White.

Robert Swift, of Cedar Falls, is next in line and he has been a faithful worker with the Sacristans for the past three years. Instructing the servers is part of his work. Francis Speyer and Alphonse White complete the quartet of sacristy workers. Speyer, or "Spido" to his intimates, is a Chicago representative, and White, brother of the Reverend Louis White, is from Worthington. All are seniors.

Queen's Work Holds Short Story Contest

The Queen's Work Short Story Contest has been officially announced recently. The fourth year English classes are especially interested in this tourney.

The rules are simple enough. Really the only hard part of the whole affair is the writing of the story. Even if a student does not win a prize, he has a good chance of meriting a reward, for the publishing house is paying one cent per word for any story which it publishes.

The stories are to be submitted to the student's English teacher, who will send them to the contest judges. All unpleasant or criminal themes

Interest Aroused in Mission Activities

Round Table activities now seem to be well-organized, progressing on a serious basis. To date, the freshmen have held more meetings than other divisions, having definitely decided to send prayers and sacrifices offered during two weeks to Father Hubert Pospical, '20 Columbia College graduate, for the success of his missionary work in Korea. Staging of the Senior Unit Mission play has been postponed to some future date.

The following is a list of the Senior Round Tablers: Chief, Justin Kane, Scribe, Arthur O'Neill. The other members are: Hilarius Heying, Robert Weldon, Joseph Kissling, James Ham, Francis Thor, Raymond Roseliep, Frank Murray, Joseph McCaffery, Edward Roth, Daniel Tierney, Eugene Hickey. The year's topic for discussion is stated as "The Reunion of the East."

Singing in Chapel Progresses Nicely

The whole student body of Columbia Academy has made admirable progress in the congregational singing class organized at the beginning of the school year under the direction of Father Kelly. This class meets during the assembly period every Wednesday afternoon in the chapel, and all students have been supplied with Gregorian hymnals.

While many beautiful English hymns have been studied, the class is now concentrating on Latin works, particularly the Mass of the Angels, and the Requiem, as well as various arrangements of the Laudate Dominum and Adoro te Devote.

Because of this new class, the Columbia Academy choir is no longer a separate unit, but is simply considered as a part of the larger organization.

Basketball News To Be Broadcast

Just recently our local radio station, WKBB, graciously offered to help us advertise our basketball games. The Academy Basketball flashes are to become a regular feature of WKBB's World News Flashes at 12:15 p. m. The forecast, standings of the opposing teams, and the particulars of the game will be broadcast on the noon previous to the game; the results, stars, highlights, etc., on the noon after the game. The announcer, Reggie Martin, has also offered to broadcast the score at the half and again at the conclusion of the game.

The radio station announces scheduled games of many schools in Dubuque and vicinity, because of their campaign for more Dubuque news, but the concession of score broadcast during a basketball game has been made to very few high schools.

Letters Awarded at Christmas Banquet

The annual Academy football banquet was held just before Christmas holidays at St. Francis Hall. All the members of the 1934 football squad together with the faculty and some representatives of the Cee Ay Staff and student body were present.

The banquet got under way with a fine turkey dinner. Following the banquet short talks were given by Coach Cretzmeyer and other members of the faculty, the 1934 captains, Keller and Weldon, and the captains-elect who were announced at the banquet.

Letters were awarded to eighteen men. The following players received major awards: Captains Keller and Weldon, Captains elect Harker and Voelker, Geisler, Koltenbach, Glodon, Trebon, Pfohl, Ludescher, Meurisse, Donahue, Hanson and Heying. Minor awards were given to Koob, Klass, Setter, Sherman and Fitzgerald.

Routledge Places Next; Roseliep Third

The results of the annual essay contest, one of the most valued traditions of the academy, have been officially announced. Joseph Evans, a junior in the academy, won first place with an essay, "Modern Education." The second place was won by a freshman — an unusual occurrence — John Routledge, who wrote his essay on "What Constitutes Good Citizenship." Raymond Roseliep, a fourth academic, captured third place with "Bells". Honorable mention was given to Edward McDermott, a junior, who entered "Winter" as his essay, Philip Renier, a junior who, strangely enough, wrote on "Nothing", and Francis Speyer, a senior, whose contribution was a discussion of Milton's L'Allegro.

Mr. Evans, in his essay, "Modern Education," showed the many prevailing faults of the present-day school system and offered as a possible solution a return to the medieval spirit of instruction. "What Constitutes Good Citizenship" by John Routledge, who even in grade school showed his tendency toward writing, is an intelligent and informative work. Quite different in treatment is Raymond Roseliep's essay on "Bells", denoting the spiritual effect the chimes of a church may have on one's soul.

The judges of the contest were the members of the English department of St. Paul's High School of Epworth.

Mother's Club Gives Dinner for Parents

Over one hundred guests were present last Thursday evening at St. Francis Hall when the Mother's Club held its annual pot-luck dinner for the parents of the day students.

Mrs. Pearl Lenz, president, and her assistants, Mrs. J. J. Kane, Mrs. A. Freund, Mrs. C. J. O'Hearn, Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. Routledge, Mrs. J. Key, Mrs. L. Scheele, Mrs. Spahn, Mrs. Degendorf, Mrs. Ham, Mrs. Trebon, formed the committee in charge. The tables were decorated in the traditional purple and gold.

An interesting program of informal talks was presented by Fathers Patnode, Striegel, and Churchill, all members of the Academy faculty. Mrs. Most, first president of the

The Second Aim of Columbia Academy

Of the two aims of Columbia Academy, the second—to guide each student in acquiring the five habits of (1) thoughtfulness, (2) perseverance, (3) quiet initiative, (4) self-control, and (5) mastery of present duty—derives from the first, much has already been discussed.

While the first aim is primarily concerned with purely spiritual matters, the second aim deals with the more practical means of attaining these ends. Thoughtfulness is in reality one of the essentials of the Christian mode of life, for it tends away from egotism and self-centering and tends toward a more perfect appreciation of the difficulties of our fellow-men and the ways, small ones usually, in which we can alleviate their troubles.

The value of perseverance, that ability of seeing a thing through, is obvious in almost everything we undertake, whether of a temporal or a spiritual nature. Quiet initiative is one of the finest habits we can form. It promotes the welfare not only of the soul but also of the mind because it enables us to do things of ourselves with only the thought of achievement necessary to encourage us.

Self-control, of course, is probably the most valuable virtue or habit we can acquire, since through it we can live a full and happy life, certain within ourselves that we will always be moderate in everything. Mastery of present duty, like perseverance makes it possible for us to complete whatever we are doing, an asset which is important now and whose importance will steadily increase as we mature.

In all of these habits we can see the guiding figure of Christ exemplifying them to a perfection we can never hope to reach. By really diligent effort, however, we can approach as near to that perfection as is humanly possible.

The Legion of Decency

Almost a year has passed since the Legion of Decency, the only attempted movie-cleanup to reach any success at all, began its drive. In many ways it has done much that is good and admirable, insofar as it has brought to the screen works which were never considered possibilities before.

It has done a great deal towards proving that mere smut for its own sake is unnecessary and at best stupid, and that a movie can be enjoyable and even significant and still be clean. Also it has shown that the American people's much-publicized taste for dirt is perhaps not so firm as it has always been considered. The dreaded calamity that as a result of the Legion of Decency the producers would go to the extreme of giving us nothing but sticky-sweet sentimentalities did not materialize to any formidable extent.

But it is quite possible that the Legion of Decency has been guided too much by its insistence on cleanliness and not enough by intelligence. By banning some artistically fine pictures and approving others which are hopeless from any standpoint, the whole movement naturally loses prestige. The impression is given that a movie is fit for consumption just because it is clean, although it may be offensive to many things other than one's sense of decency.

This is one of the few unfortunate things about the Legion of Decency, and of course whatever mistakes it may have made, have been far out balanced by the good it has done.

Canvasses Returned To College Museum

The fine group of paintings from Archbishop Beckman's private collection which so impressed visitors at the Hall of Religion in the World's Fair last summer, has been given to the Columbia Museum.

These paintings have been recently returned from Chicago, where following their exhibition at the Fair they were shown for two months at Klein's department store. Here as at the Fair they created a most favorable impression, and thousands of people viewed them, among them groups from various schools, both Catholic and non-Catholic.

One of the most remarkable of the paintings is the "Christus" by the modern Polish artist Styka. The realism and simplicity of this work

COLLEGE TO PRESENT PLAY ON JANUARY 27

The Columbia College Players will present A. A. Milne's amusing mystery play, "The Perfect Alibi" on Sunday evening, January 27, for the benefit of the combined college and academy bands.

"The Perfect Alibi" is by no means an average mystery thriller. It is written in that refreshing manner which has made Milne one of the foremost contemporary dramatists. There is none of that mediocrity and pathetic slapstick farce which is so common in the works of lesser writers.

The Columbia College regimental band under the direction of Professor S. C. Dovi will give a concert at 8 o'clock directly preceding the play. Both the college and academy bands have been greatly improved through the work of Professor Dovi, who has just recently taken over the direction of the college band.

SCREEN PORTRAYAL OF DICKENS' NOVEL SHOWN

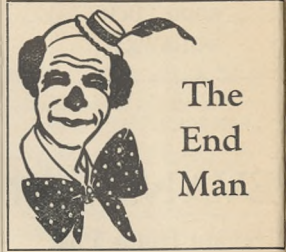

The famous Charles Dickens' movie "Great Expectations" has just closed a three day run at the Orpheum. The students of the Academy had been asked to attend this movie because of the charitable purpose which the sponsors had in view.

"Great Expectations" is one of a long line of worth while movies made from worth while books. The story deals with the vicissitudes in the life of one of Dickens' many immortal characters, Pip, an orphan, living with his harsh, married sister. The story combines pathos and humor as only Dickens, the nineteenth century master of the novel can. The story runs in the same vein as "David Copperfield" and "Oliver Twist". The educational value of the cinema was attested by all who attended. We noticed with pleasure that the scenarist rarely deviated from Dickens' intricate plot and characterizations. The producers and Dubuque sponsors are to be commended for their noble efforts to bring us movies of the better type.

Since WKRB came into existence more than a year ago, it has grown from a novelty to a potent factor in the community life of Dubuque, largely through the persistent efforts of Price, Martin, Wiedner and the engineer, Mr. Stillman. "The Voice of the Tri State" is now heard from the Julien Hotel, but the control room and main studio are located in East Dubuque. We sincerely hope that WKRB will grow in popularity in the middle west and we wish to thank them for their attempt to help us advertise our basketball games. We can promise an increase in listeners, especially to the noon News Flashes as we hope to glean from the station's kindness an increased attendance and interest in our home games during the remaining part of the basketball season.

The End Man

Can you imagine:
Hartford in a bathing beauty contest?
Kate Smith on Glover's lap?
Ham smoking at school?
O'Neill not putting his name in the Buyer's Guide.

Our inquiring reporter overheard Mr. Swift say to a questioning group of fair admirers: "In the first place, girls, Clark Gable is fully two inches taller than I," etc.

They say that babies must play—and I guess that's why Charles has a bell.

How does Wimpy Ryan get by? Well, you would too if you said "Is your sister in?" when her mother came to the door.

Did you know that Eisbach, Juergens and Dolter made a New Year's resolution to never permit cigarette butts to lie around corridors or other improper places. Why leave them around in such places when very often they are perfectly good cigarettes!

At the Elocution Contest, the talented young favorite appeared from behind the scenes to deliver his oration.

"Friends, Romans, Countrymen," he vociferated dramatically. "Lend me your ears."

"There!" commented the mother of the apparently defeated opponent. "That's....., he wouldn't be his mother's boy if he didn't want to borrow something."

Tell me, just WHO is "It"? Perhaps some of our staid and sober-minded Seniors could inform us of the identity of this mysterious..... Yes, it's a she.

Prof. (at dinner): Looks like rain, doesn't it?
Walter Joe: But, Father, it smells like coffee to me.

Swift: Do all nuts grow on trees?
Speyer: Sure.
Swift: Then, on what tree do doughnuts grow?
Speyer: The pantry.

The Faculty and the student body extend their most heartfelt sympathy to Fr. Loosbrock on the death of his Mother.

Gubs Meet St. Ambrose Academy To-night

Keller and Kolfenbach Chosen All-State Men

Two members of the 1934 Gubs were chosen by the most prominent sports writers of the State to be members of the All State Catholic High School Football Team. The men to be so honored by receiving these positions were Captain Bill Keller and John Kolfenbach.

Captain Keller had received a berth on the second All-State team during the past 2 years. This year, however, he was placed on the 1st team. It was a fitting climax to his three years as Varsity center. During these three years he has scored two touchdowns. The first, during his first season as center, was made by intercepting a pass on the sixty yard line and carrying it over for a touchdown. The second occasion was during his last year when Coach Cretzmeyer evolved a special play by which he could score a touchdown in his last game. Needless to say it worked beautifully. Captain Keller showed himself to be one of the best centers that the Gubs have ever had. To his aggressiveness we attribute the small scores of the opposing teams. We take this opportunity to congratulate Captain Keller for his many achievements on the gridiron.

John Kolfenbach, the other player to receive such honor, has only been a member of the Gubs for the past season. He too showed himself to be a versatile player and one of the best ends of the past few years. Much credit is due him for the victories of the past season. He showed himself to be stalwart on defense and aggressive on offense.

Academy Reserves Open Season Under Coach Weldon

Jerome Weldon has come out in the role of a basketball coach. "Tony" has taken over the business of coaching the Gublets, or if you want to be more formal you call them the Reserves. Noonan, Harker, F. Ryan, and Cy Reilly are fighting for guard positions, while De Correll, Botsford, Dawson and Kula are out for center. J. Murphy, Dorrington, Bou, E. Kolfenbach, and Ottavi are the aspirants for the forward positions.

Unfortunately they lost their first game with De Witt by a score of 14 to 12. The line up for the game was: Harker and Noonan, guards; Bou and Murphy, forwards; Botsford, center.

MOTHER'S CLUB GIVES DINNER FOR PARENTS

Music was furnished by Professor Schroeder's ensemble during the dinner hour. Conversation and get-acquainted talks followed.

Judging from this successful endeavor, and the splendid co-operation displayed in selling tickets for "The Perfect Alibi," a mystery drama to be given January 27, the Mother's Club is planning a very active season. Other such activities are soon to follow.

Duhawks to Meet Saint Ambrose Tomorrow Night

After winning three straight conference victories, the Columbia Duhawks are definitely recognized as one of the finest basketball squads the college has ever produced.

Although they had previously won two games, the Duhawks did not actually start their conference season until they met Central College on Saturday, January 12. In this as in the succeeding games they demonstrated a coordination and workmanship which approaches perfection. On the following Friday, January 18, the Columbia squad played a swift, sure game against Penn College, beating the Quakers 24 to 15. The very next night the Duhawks played Iowa Wesleyan, working with clock-like precision to a 47-37 victory.

Tomorrow night Columbia will play one of the biggest games of its schedule against St. Ambrose College of Davenport. This will be by far the most interesting game of the season because St. Ambrose, like Columbia, has a clear record, and the two teams are pretty evenly matched. But if the Duhawks keep on going like they have been, they need have little to fear from St. Ambrose, or even Loyola, for that matter.

QUEEN'S WORK HOLDS

SHORT STORY CONTEST

(Continued from page 1, column 1) are barred. The story should be Catholic in tone, but need not deal with a religious theme, and it should portray high ideals, good manners, etc.

The contest closes March 15, but compositions reaching the offices before February 15 will be rejected. The stories must be typewritten and sent flat. Three cash prizes will be given—$75.00 to the winner of first place and $50.00 to the second place while third honors will be given $25.00. So let's go, Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, and even you Freshies!

SINGING IN CHAPEL PROGRESSES NICELY

Gubs Defeat St. Mary's of Waterloo by Score 31-12

The Gubs continued to show their strong offensive power by defeating St. Mary's, Waterloo, 31 to 12 on the latter's own floor, January 18. The game was featured by fast scoring on the part of Columbia but nevertheless it was filled with many thrills.

The Gubs got off to an early start in the initial period and by half time they had a comfortable lead of 19 to 7. In the second half Coach Cretzmeyer substituted freely and still the Junior Purple and Gold kept their decisive lead.

The playing of Strohmeyer and Kolfenbach was outstanding for the Gubs. It was the former's great offensive play and the latter's defensive play that enabled the Gubs to acquire their impressive victory. Gillis, guard, and Budak, forward, looked best for St. Mary's.

After the game the squad enjoyed the traditional St. Mary's hospitality in the way of a lunch and dance in their gym.

The Gub Quintet

Coach Cretzmeyer announced at the Christmas banquet that John Kolfenbach, a Senior, had been elected captain of this year's basketball team.

John is a well known athlete in these parts and deserves the honor to captain the present edition of the Gubs. The Cee-Ay offers congratulations.

Tilt to Be Played On Academy Floor

Coach Cretzmeyer's quint from Gubland will defend their honor against the St. Ambrose Academy tonight on their own floor. When the Davenporters were hosts to Mr. Cretzmeyer and his squad we came out on the short end of a 24 to 18 score. The Junior Ambrosians put on an old fashioned rally in the last few minutes of play and we had to suffer the consequences.

To date our basketekers have won four and lost two games and there are ten games to be played in the current season.

The Gubs opened their home schedule on December 18 by defeating the strong St. Xavier high from Dyersville by the score of 31-23.

Mathews, diminutive sophomore forward, led the Gub's offensive drive with 10 points while Huberty and Henkle shared the scoring honors for Dyersville. Capt. Kolfenbach stood out for the Gubs on defense.

Gubs Win Over Rivals 25-15 and 32-10

Among the games chalked up in the win column by the Gubs since Christmas are a 24 to 15 victory of I. C. of Cedar Rapids and a 32 to 10 win over St. Joseph's High of De Witt. The Cedar Rapids game was played in the college gym and the De Witt game was played at De Witt.

The fact that the Gubs have been making good on most of their gift shots this season has been a factor in their success. In the game with the Cedar Rapids quint they made 10 out of 15 shots. In this game "Bobby" Mathews was high man with ten points and Kolfenbach turned in a very good defensive game. Wolfe and Schnobain stood out for I. C.

CATHOLIC ACTION NOTES

Students! Sunday, January 27, is Charly Sunday in Dubuque. May we offer a workable suggestion? Why not deprive yourself of at least one package of your favorite cigarettes and at least one movie. Put the savings from both in an envelope and hand it to your dean. After all it is only our duty and obligation as Catholics—real Catholics to give to Christ's cause.

A series of very interesting and informative articles by H. R. Knickerbocher about Russia have appeared in the Catholic Daily Tribune. Have you read them? If you should desire to learn more about Russia, and in a most interesting way, read "Silver Trumpets Calling" by Lucille Borden. A powerfully gripping, yet realistic discourse on modern Russia, written up in the form of a novel.

Have you read "Twelve Years in a Reformatory" by Father Francis J. Lane, chaplain of Elmira Reformatory, New York? If you wish definite proof of the fact that society rests upon conscience and not on science, read it!

During the second semester, special attention in the fourth Ac Religion classes is to be called to the selection and possibilities of careers.

"Nicky" is the name of a new pamphlet just off the Queen's Work press. It is a very inspirational story, and it is one that both young and old may draw profit as well as enjoyment. Try to get your copy. The spiritual director will have a supply soon.

The Unity Octave, Jan. 18-25, is now in progress. The students are urged to observe this annual prayer drive for the reunion of the Oriental churches with the True Fold, as this is a richly indulged practice. The Unity Octave was extended to the Universal Church in 1916, having its inception in the Society of the Atonement. This Society follows the Franciscan rule and is noted for its conversion to the Catholic Church from Anglicanism in 1909.

Dress Parade

Art "Shrimp" Topel—Art is the little pale self-conscious fellow that so many of the big boys like to tease when he happens to stutter while reading. We hear that Shrimp is robbing the cradle. (Sssh! her name is Betty.)

John "Cutie" Kolfenbach—Cutie, senior class president, was surnamed as such by the girls of a nearby institution. Geisler and Keller are his admirers; Tierney his tagalong. John hadn't gone in for social affairs before the last out of town B. B. game, but, "Cutie", will you get over that school-boy bashfulness? ?

Robert "Speed" Quirk—The shiekly Romeo who gains the confidence of his professor's by that Ever-Ready smile. (English class an exception to the rule.) Rumor states that Bob is always sick at exam time. Vergil and Camels are his weaknesses.

Francis "Stooge" Speyer—Tall, dark, and handsome—that's Stooze. He spoiled lad from the Big City. Doesn't like his name linked with Swift's and likes to work Cross Word Puzzles with a certain prof in the library.

William "Evolution" Keller—The man who originated the phrase "Don't be dominated by a woman." That's the philosophy of him who carries the leather spheroid to victory. Sports and study periods in the library are favorites of Evolution's. CYO dances and starchy evenings take up his spare time.

James "Steve" Fitzgerald—The Greta Garbo of the senior dorm halls from Cuba City—(Who'd a thunk it?) Blushes furiously at every inopportune moment. Reading books for Religion is a task to Fitz. As to where the Steve comes from we don't know—Ask Benedict!

Edward "Bob" Zeizer—A certain U. C. knows where the "Bob" comes from—we don't. The boy from back home (Brown's Town—Population 3) is especially noted for getting in Fitz's and Setter's hair. We'd like to know what he does on Saturday and Sunday P. M.'s when he isn't stung!

Joseph "Setter Pup" Setter—Makes a fortune haunting Fitz and Zeizer. They say he also knows a certain
